MEDIA — The Foundation for Delaware County recently announce the appointment of new officers to its board of directors. The following community leaders have been elected to lead the largest philanthropy in Delaware County: Dominic Pileggi, chair; Corliss Boggs, vice chair; Nathaniel “Nick” Nichols, secretary; Ted Peters, treasurer; and Dr. L. Joy Gates Black, chair, Governance

Committee.

“We are thrilled to have a diverse and deep bench of dedicated Delaware County residents leading The Foundation for Delaware County,” said Frances Sheehan, president. “It is an exciting time for the foundation as we assist in the development of a new Delaware County Public Health Department and manage grant programs like the Delaware County COVID-19 Response Fund, the Delco Census Action Fund, and the Delco Strong 2 Nonprofit Fund. The diverse experience of our board members will be a real asset as we continue to build a philanthropic engine to move Delaware County forward.”

The Foundation for Delaware County is a public charity founded in 2016. It is the largest philanthropy serving Delaware County. One of 780 community foundations across the U.S., the foundation focuses on encouraging philanthropy, convening across sectors to address difficult community issues, and makes grants to strengthen Delaware County's nonprofit community. In March, the foundation distributed more than $1 million in grants to improve the well-being of the diverse residents in the county. Learn more here:

With headquarters in Media and services sites in Eddystone, Upper Darby and Springfield, The Foundation for Delaware County also operates the prestigious evidence-based programs: Healthy Start, the WIC nutrition program and Nurse-Family Partnership. Other programs include: Drug Free Communities El Centro, a Hispanic resource center, and a health resource center for students in the Chester Upland School District.
