Mike Magnavita

Cyrise L. Dixon, a resident of Chester, was the first female patrol officer in the city of Chester and currently serves as the chief of staff for the Chester Police Department.

Dixon is actively involved in the Chester community with a focus on community empowerment & development, public safety, youth development, and enhancing the lives of senior citizens.

Michael B. Magnavita is president and CEO of Franklin Mint Federal Credit Union ("FMFCU"). He presently serves on the Board of Directors of the Good Fellowship Ambulance & EMS Training Institute, Delaware County Community College Educational Foundation and White Horse Village.

Kate Zidek works as an Investment Officer for Argo Capital Group. In addition to her position on the Investment Committee for The Foundation for Delaware County, Zidek serves on the Endowment Board of Methodist Services in Philadelphia and recently completed her tenure as Trustee on the Board of the School in Rose Valley.

"We are delighted to welcome Cyrise, Michael and Kate to The Foundation for Delaware County," says Frances Sheehan, president. "Their diverse experience in the community will be a real asset as our board continues to develop the strategic direction of Delaware County's newest community foundation."
